REPORT ON ACTIVITIES OF 2021-2022

North Carolina's Natural Heritage Program (NCNHP) has prepared this report to summarize program activities occurring during calendar years 2021 and 2022, as directed by the North Carolina Nature Preserves Act (GS 143B-135.250-.272).

Established in 1976, NCNHP is a unit of the Division of Land and Water Stewardship, within the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources (DNCR). Nine of the twelve full-time staff positions are funded with an appropriation from the state budget.

NCNHP works in partnership with a variety of state and federal agencies, private organizations, individuals, and corporations to: 1) identify and inventory the most unique and irreplaceable natural areas of North Carolina, 2) share information about these natural areas with landowners and land managers, and 3) establish state nature preserves for the benefit of present and future generations.

NCNHP is the North Carolina component of an international network of natural heritage programs that share a common methodology and a commitment to documenting occurrences of rare species and natural areas across the United States, Canada, and Latin America. The 86 programs that comprise this network are affiliated through NatureServe, a private, nonprofit organization.

Program activities of 2021 and 2022 are summarized in this report under the three major program areas of NCNHP: Information Services, Inventory, and Natural Area Conservation.

INFORMATION SERVICES

North Carolina's Natural Heritage Program has developed the state's most comprehensive database of biodiversity information by combining on-the-ground surveys with advanced GPS and GIS technology. Government, industry, the military, and conservation groups all trust NHP data to inform important economic development, infrastructure investment, and land conservation decisions. NCNHP biologists are recognized for their decades of field expertise and commitment to complete and accurate data, and our client-focused analysts respond to hundreds of large-scale and site-specific information requests annually. We are committed to providing timely, creative, high-quality solutions to a wide variety of environmental and development planning needs. Our data systems are linked with powerful mapping tools – now accessible online 24/7.

North Carolina is fortunate to have a variety of outstanding biologists working independently or as part of state and federal conservation agencies, at universities, as independent consultants, or in private conservation organizations. Working as part of this informal network of exceptional naturalists, NCNHP consolidates the information collected about rare species, high quality natural communities, and natural areas and makes it available for a variety of uses, including conservation and development planning. The information is also used to weigh the ecological significance of various sites and to evaluate the likelihood and nature of ecological impacts. This information supports informed evaluations of the possible impacts of development projects before plans have been finalized. Finally, this information facilitates the establishment of priorities for the protection of North Carolina's natural areas.

Information Requests

NCNHP maintains interactive online maps (at the Natural Heritage Data Explorer website, https://ncnhde.natureserve.org/content/map), including a project review feature that generates tables of records occurring within specified project areas and allows users to view locations of natural heritage records. The online information database also generates reports of rare species, high quality natural communities, natural areas, and conservation managed areas, summarized by county or by U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) quadrangle. NCNHP hosts monthly workshops to help data customers learn to use the array of services NCNHP now provides online. Workshops are tailored to specific user groups, including government partners, private consultants, land managers, and conservation grant applicants. This web-based information system has been well received, both by partner agencies and the public. This service is updated quarterly and is expected to reduce the workload for staff while allowing easier access to the most requested information. Due to technical and financial limitations, NCNHP began charging a modest annual fee to users to help recover the costs associated with providing the data online beginning October 1, 2018.

During 2021 and 2022, 6,728 projects were submitted to the Natural Heritage Program for review by staff and the Natural Heritage Data Explorer online environmental review tool, 50% more than the previous biennium. These projects were submitted by individuals, federal and state agencies, consulting firms, academic institutions, conservation organizations, and city and county governments. As of December 31, 2022, 892 individuals in 173 organizations have active user accounts for the Natural Heritage Data Explorer website.

Most projects submitted to the Natural Heritage Data Explorer (NHDE) website were related to the development, transportation, conservation, and energy sectors (Figure 2).

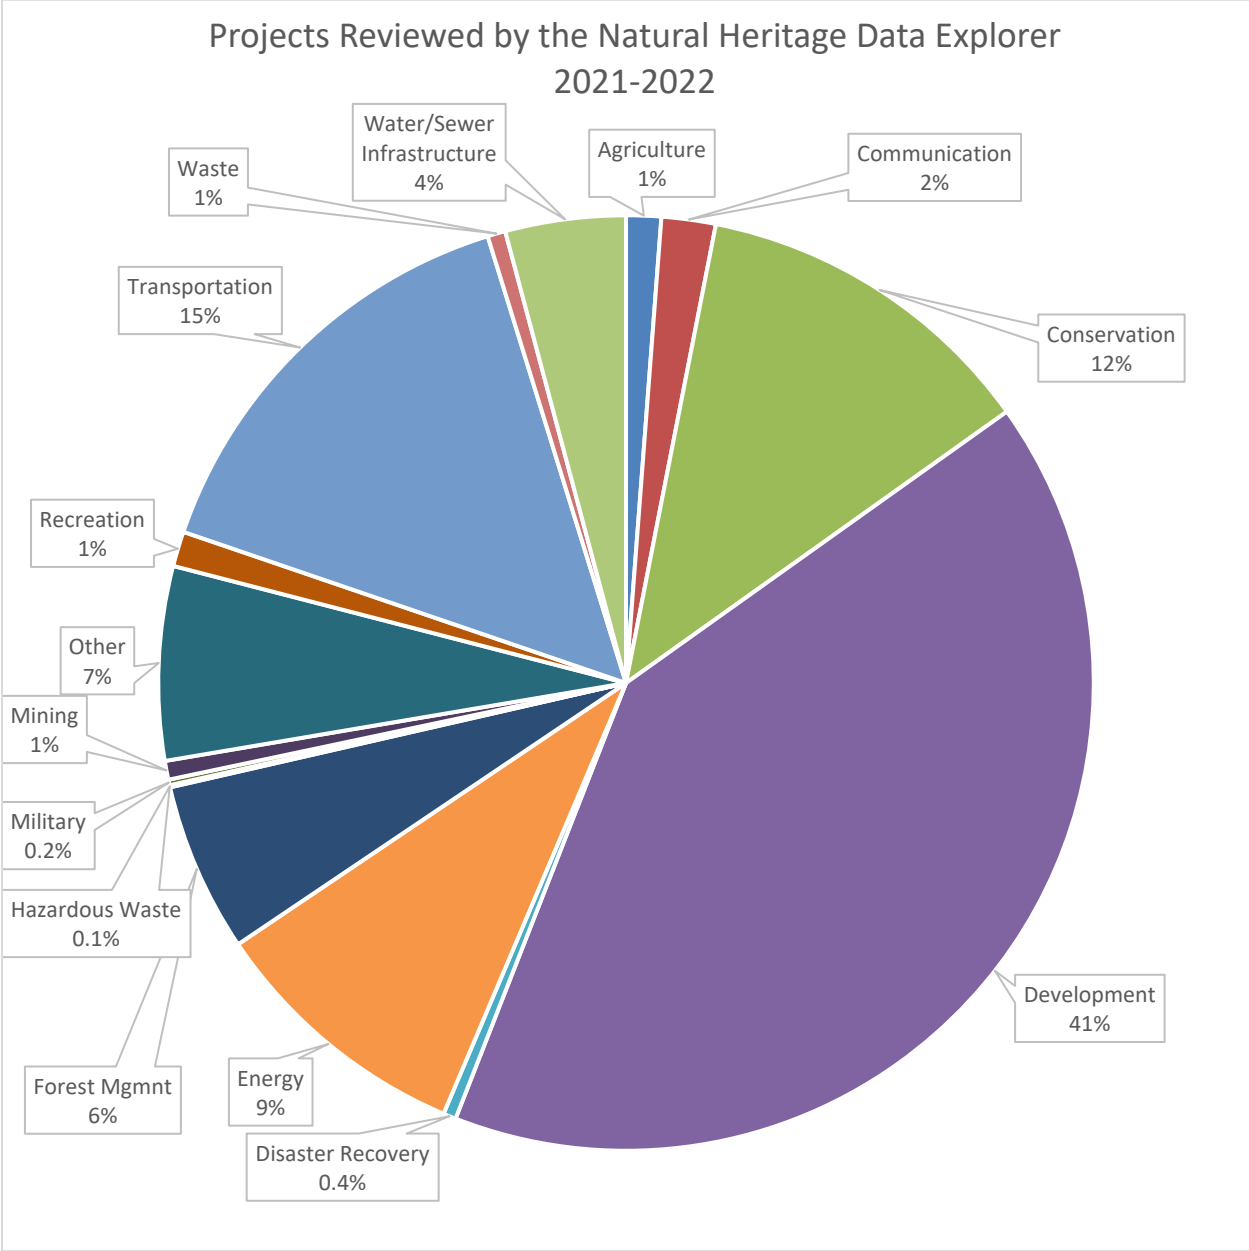

Figure 2. Percentage of projects submitted for review to NCNHP by economic sector in 2021-2022. Percentages greater than 1 are rounded off to the nearest whole number.

At the request of the NC Forest Service, the Natural Heritage Program provided training to forestry and wildlife professionals participating in Foresters for Healthy Waters Pre-Harvest Plan development. Participants were trained on accessing maps of protected areas and rare species online, to help to ensure rivers and streams adjacent to timber harvests remain in good condition for aquatic species.

Publications

NCNHP produces four reference publications (listed below). These publications are used by numerous state, private, and federal agencies, including the U.S. Department of Defense, the N.C. Department of Transportation, the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, U.S. Forest Service, and various corporations, as well as environmental consultants, academic institutions, and the public. The publications are provided at cost upon request. In addition, NCNHP provides digital files of these publications on the website (http://www.ncnhp.org/).

Natural Heritage Program reference publications:

- Natural Heritage Program List of the Rare Animal Species of North Carolina;
- Natural Heritage Program List of the Rare Plant Species of North Carolina;
- Classification of the Natural Communities of North Carolina;
- Priority List of Natural Areas.

Copies of county natural area inventory reports or rare species accounts are available upon request. A database of publications is searchable online at: http://ncnhp.org/web/nhp/searchable-publications. A list of all NCNHP reports in 2021 and 2022 is included in Appendix A.

INVENTORY

NCNHP maintains an inventory of plants, animals, and natural communities occurring within the state as part of a comprehensive effort to identify the most significant natural areas for Dedication as Nature Preserves and Registry as Natural Heritage Areas. Natural area surveys are also conducted when possible for protection-focused projects on behalf of partners such as the North Carolina Land and Water Fund. Inventories are also conducted with partners for particular rare species or natural communities.

2021-2022 Natural Area Inventories

A Natural Area Inventory is a systematic search for the best examples of natural communities and locations of rare species throughout a defined location. The identification of these natural areas is a fundamental step in the effort to conserve our state's biodiversity. Conservation of these natural areas can greatly enhance the quality of life for residents of North Carolina and preserve North Carolina's native biodiversity for future generations.

Inventory reports include maps and descriptions of the most important natural areas and their ecological significance. This information benefits a wide range of users, from individual landowners to various government agencies. Private consultants and permit applicants use these inventories to determine what species are likely to be involved in development applications. State agencies and local land trusts rely on Natural Heritage data to make informed decisions about land and water use and site conservation. Due to staff limitations, the NCNHP did not conduct field surveys for any county-wide inventories in the 2021-2022 biennium due to lack of funding. Funding for natural area inventories was historically provided by the Natural Heritage Trust Fund. Whenever possible, matching funds were secured from local governments or raised by a partner, such as a land trust. NCNHP continues to pursue funding and partners for natural area inventories.

Natural area inventories conducted by NCNHP staff help North Carolina agencies prioritize acquisition of conservation lands. For example, in 2020 and 2021, the NC Land and Water Fund (NCLWF) awarded funding to Foothills Conservancy of North Carolina (FCNC) to purchase 2,681 acres of land and convey conservation agreements in the Pinnacle Mountains of McDowell County to support the Wilderness Gateway State Trail. This new project will protect two highly ranked NC Natural Areas (Mike Mountain--Pinnacle Mountain and Morgan Mountain--Ledbetter Mountain), a population of Federally and State Endangered White Irisette (Sisyrinchium dichotomum), and surface waters of the Broad River basin. FCNC will manage the acquired land for permanent conservation and development of the Wilderness Gateway Trail westward toward the Hickory Nut Gorge State Trail. According to Andrew Kota of Foothills Conservancy, this acquisition is an important parcel and component in FCNC's and partners conservation strategy to permanently conserve lands between the South Mountains and Blue Ridge Mountains and to develop Wilderness Gateway as a long-distance public trail. The forested land will provide passive recreation, and connects to a state-federal assemblage of conservation lands, including Box Creek Wilderness (USFWS easement), Bobs Creek State Natural Area, and South Mountains Game Land. This site was included in the Natural Heritage Program report, An Inventory of the Natural Areas of McDowell County North Carolina (2005) (Figure 3, left).

In 2021 and 2022, while surveying an area in the Croatan National Forest, NHP Entomologist Laurie Hamon confirmed the presence of a population of Venus Flytrap Cutworm Moth (Hemipachnobia subporphyrea). With only 8 known populations globally, this moth, which depends upon Venus Flytrap during a portion of its life-cycle, is considered Critically Imperiled both Globally (G1) and within NC (S1). Biologists had previously found evidence of feeding damage on Venus Flytraps in the area, but the 2021-2022 surveys were the first positive identification based on captured and released individuals. This information will help inform the US Forest Service when planning forest management activities such as prescribed fire and hurricane recovery.

2021-2022 Rare Species and Natural Community Inventories

NCNHP inventories the distribution and habitats of rare species of the state and the remaining high-quality or rare examples of natural communities. Many of these inventories are conducted in cooperation with partners who are interested in setting aside land for conservation, including the Wildlife Diversity Program of the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, the Plant Conservation Program of the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, and private landowners.

Business customers may request field surveys of tracts locations under consideration for development. Field surveys of sites not related to creation of nature preserves are supported by hourly fees. Natural Heritage field biologists assist consultants with conducting field surveys and provide a report of their findings, including maps of rare species, natural communities, natural areas, and nature preserves within the project area. The demand for assistance with field surveys associated with conservation subdivisions increased during this Biennium, as shown in Table 6. In a conservation subdivision, a percentage of the buildable land is set aside as open space, and homes are grouped together in higher density in other areas. Zoning regulations that give developers flexibility in lot sizes and setback requirements allow conservation subdivisions to achieve the same or higher overall density levels as conventional subdivisions. Developers build the same number of homes while conserving open space. Some communities also offer incentives such as density bonuses to encourage conservation subdivisions, making these subdivisions more economical and allowing developers to achieve the same or higher density as in a conventional subdivision by using smaller, more flexible lot sizes.

Table 2 provides an overview of the natural heritage Biotics database that contains the core of North Carolina's natural heritage inventory. This database summarizes information about the occurrences of rare species, high quality natural communities, and natural areas in North Carolina. An Element Occurrence is an area of land or water that is currently or was historically occupied by rare plants or animals, exemplary or unique natural communities, or important animal assemblages.

NATURAL AREA CONSERVATION

Conservation Managed Areas

NCNHP maintains a dataset of lands managed, at least partially, for conservation. Knowledge of the extent and location of these lands is crucial for implementation of the North Carolina State Wildlife Action Plan and for the preservation of the state's biodiversity. The majority (85 percent) of land in North Carolina is privately owned. Lands in public ownership include 78 state game lands, 79 state park units including natural areas, 11 national wildlife refuges, 12 state forests, 4 national forests, and numerous county and city parks. There are also at least 21 private land trusts acquiring land and easements throughout the state. NCNHP provides the GIS files for all conservation managed lands in North Carolina to the N.C. Center for Geographic Information and Analysis for the N.C. OneMap Initiative and to the USGS Protected Areas Database, following national standards.

Conservation Planning Tool

The North Carolina Conservation Planning Tool synthesizes the priorities of the state's land conservation agencies and organizations to help inform decisions and guide land protection and planning efforts statewide. This comprehensive interactive map shows a relative order of conservation significance, supporting cost-effective land investment decisions. The data and maps included in the assessments can be used independently or in combination with information from additional sources. By coordinating data from state agencies, users can identify natural areas that provide multiple resource priorities.

The Conservation Planning Tool has been presented in workshops with N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission to a range of audiences that includes partners from federal, state, and local agencies, regional planning organizations, universities, and nonprofit conservation groups. The accuracy and usefulness of the information provided in the Conservation Planning Tool has been widely accepted and, in many cases, incorporated into local and regional planning efforts. The N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission provides support for updating the maps with the most current data each year.

2021-2022 Dedications and Registries

NCNHP encourages conservation and stewardship of natural areas through creation of Dedicated Nature Preserves (DNP) and Registered Heritage Areas (RHA) under the Nature Preserves Act (GS 143B-135.250-.272). Dedicated Nature Preserves are permanently protected through a legally binding agreement with DNCR to manage the land for conservation of its natural heritage resources. State-owned land can only be removed from dedication upon approval of the governor and the Council of State. Registered Heritage Areas are agreements between the NCNHP and the landowner recognizing the natural heritage value of the land or water. Owners of Registered Heritage Areas sign a voluntary agreement with DNCR demonstrating their commitment to protecting the natural heritage resources of their property. These landowners may receive help with biological surveys and management recommendations.

During the past two years, NCNHP has continued to lead the selection and nomination for registration or dedication of natural areas. During this biennium, NCNHP has worked with partner agencies, including the State Property Office, to dedicate natural areas under the Nature Preserves Act. At the request of the NC Department of Public Safety, NHP identified natural areas at prison sites that are suitable for Dedicated Nature Preserves, protecting rare species and their habitat, and increasing landscape resilience and carbon storage. The first Dedicated Nature Preserves established under this partnership were at Lumber River Swamp (Robeson County) and Roanoke River Prison Farm (Halifax County) (pending State Property Office Review at time of publication).

Natural Heritage Program also partnered with Mecklenburg County to establish new voluntary Dedicated Nature Preserves on 8 County-owned parks totaling 2,112 acres. Federally Endangered Schweinitz's Sunflower and Federal Candidate Georgia aster are among conserved on those preserves.

Forty-five dedicated nature preserves were completed or amended in 2021-2022 (Table 3). Overall, 198 properties totaling 466,234 acres are Dedicated State Nature Preserves.

*Total Acres after amendment.

A total of 2,023 acres were newly designated as Registered Heritage Areas during 2021-2022. These are listed in Table 4. To date, 748,957 acres at 338 sites are designated as Registered Heritage Areas. The number of registered sites and acres is lower than the past biennial report, as some properties that were registered have transferred to new owners, and the agreements lapsed. Many of those properties transferred to the State of North Carolina and are managed by the NC Division of Parks and Recreation (e.g., South Mountains State Park, Bobs Creek State Natural Area), or to land trusts, such as the Foothills Conservancy.

We are especially pleased private landowners have maintained their interest in signing agreements with the N.C. Department of Natural and Cultural Resources to protect and manage natural areas for their natural heritage resource values. In the past two years, private landowners have entered into registry agreements to protect rare species and natural communities across the state, including areas with rare plants in the mountains, and longleaf pine savannas in the Coastal Plain.

The Natural Heritage Program also worked with the City of Fayetteville to add 281 acres to the Registered Heritage Areas at Bonnie Doone Watershed and Bonnie Doone Kornbow Lake (Cumberland County), and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to register land associated with Jordan Lake (Chatham County).

Table 4. New or Amended Registered Heritage Areas (RHA).

Name	Action	Owner
Bennett Hardpan and Bennett longleaf pine restoration area RHA	228 acres added	130 of Chatham, LLC
Bonnie Doone Watershed (City of Fayetteville) RHA	67 acres added	City of Fayetteville
Bonnie Doone/Kornbow Lake RHA	214 acres added	City of Fayetteville
Brushy Mountains Three County Forest RHA	New Registry (565 acres)	130 of Chatham, LLC
Couches Creek Headwaters RHA	New Registry (1 acre)	Private landowner
Knoll Ridge RHA	124 acres added	130 of Chatham, LLC
Moncure Boggy Streamheads RHA	New Registry (28 acres)	U.S. Army Corps of Engineers
Sidbury Road Savanna RHA	New Registry (549 acres)	Private landowner
South Toe River Little Celo Knob RHA	New Registry (206 acres)	130 of Chatham, LLC
Stancils Chapel Pine Flatwoods RHA	New Registry (41 acres)	Private landowner

Overall, the Natural Heritage Program continues to work with private landowners and public land managing agencies to support voluntary conservation of natural areas across the state. Figure 5 shows the percentage of the priority natural areas identified by the Natural Heritage Program that are at least partially protected within conservation areas for each county. At the two extremes, four counties have 100% of the priority natural areas protected for at least some portion of the area (Swain, Tyrell, Washington, and Wilson), while only 24% of the priority natural areas identified in Davie County are protected. However, many of these priority natural areas with some protection have additional portions which are not protected. No priority natural areas have yet been identified in Greene County. Slightly more than half (53%) of North Carolina counties have more than 75% of identified natural areas protected (shown in dark green). Appendix B provides a list of all the priority natural areas identified for each county, along with a list of managed areas protecting all or part of each natural area.

NATURAL HERITAGE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Natural Heritage Advisory Committee (NHAC) is composed of nine members appointed by the Secretary of the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources (Table 5). The purpose of the committee as mandated by the Nature Preserves Act (§ 143B-135.256) is to advise the Secretary and Department on matters concerning the identification, selection, registration, dedication, protection, and management of natural areas and preservation of North Carolina's natural diversity and to coordinate and facilitate cooperative efforts among public, private, academic, and scientific bodies engaged in natural heritage inventory and protection activities.

The advisory committee generally meets two to four times per year and the agenda centers around review and recommendations for registration and dedication of natural areas and nature preserves by the Department. Generally, qualifying lands purchased with funds from the N.C. Land and Water Fund and the former Natural Heritage Trust Fund are nominated for dedication, while federal and private lands are nominated for registry. The Natural Heritage Advisory Committee also reviews proposals for potential projects and amendments in dedicated nature preserves. Examples include road construction, bridge replacement, and access. Access includes trails, such as a re-route at Green River Game Land and a new regional hiking trail at Three Top Mountain Game Land, as well as access across dedicated areas to inholdings for timber or road construction. The NHAC evaluates proposals to ensure the natural heritage resource values are protected, and any land exchange would be a net gain for the public.

Natural Communities

Part of the NCNHP mission is to maintain an inventory of significant occurrences of natural communities and to encourage their protection. In service of this mission, the program maintains and publishes a classification of the natural communities of North Carolina. A natural community is defined as "a distinct and reoccurring assemblage of populations of plants, animals, bacteria, and fungi naturally associated with each other and their physical environment." Community classification accounts for a wide variety of ecological components, so that the natural community types represent differences in local-scale ecosystem function and structure, as well as differences in species composition. We define natural communities that are the result of the processes of nature, that differ in ways that are enduring and significant, and that would be found again in other places with similar environments. Natural communities are central to the work of the NCNHP; tracking occurrences of good examples is one of the major portions of the program's inventory and database work and boundaries of identified natural areas are most often based on natural communities.

The natural community classification has been updated several times, with publications, called approximations, describing the communities. The latest version, Classification of the Natural Communities of North Carolina (Fourth Approximation), has been in use by the program for several years. A full draft of a detailed descriptive book on the Fourth Approximation was completed in 2022 and was made available for review and use by scientists and conservation practitioners. Completion of this publication is anticipated in 2023. Natural community publications are available online at https://www.ncnhp.org/classification-natural-communities-fourth-approximation .

The NCNHP participates in the Carolina Vegetation Survey, a cooperative research group which has systematically amassed the largest set of vegetation plot data ever collected in the state. Analysis of this data set is ongoing. Projects focused on longleaf pine communities and mountain pine communities are under way by the principal investigators, while several graduate and undergraduate projects focused on other portions of the data were completed or initiated in 2021-2022. The National Vegetation Classification (NVC) offers different perspectives on the crucial vegetation component of natural communities in North Carolina and other states. NCNHP contributes extensively to development and maintenance of the NVC, and NVC community concepts contribute to the Program's natural community classification.

The NCNHP inventory database currently has 8,061 records of rare and high quality natural communities across the state, and new examples are found each year through the work of NCNHP biologists and partners.

Fees for Online Access to Data

In October 2018, the Natural Heritage Program began collecting fees authorized by Session Laws 2014-100 and 2015-241 to defray the costs associated with maintaining the Natural Heritage Data Explorer website — an online interface through which external users access Natural Heritage Program data. The NCNHP established fees for nongovernment organizations and individuals to access natural heritage inventory data and services. Federal, state, and local government agencies are exempt from these fees. For online access to NCNHP data, individuals and nongovernment organizations may choose from the following options:

- annual subscription for online access: $600 per user.
- online project review request with no annual subscription: $100 per project.
- downloadable Geographic Information System (GIS) maps: $100 per species, county, or watershed.
- customized environmental review services or biological surveys of land or water: $65 per hour.

The fees are used to offset the costs associated with responding to inquiries requiring customized environmental review services; the costs associated with developing, improving, or maintaining technology that supports an online interface for external users to access NCNHP data; the inventory of natural areas conducted under the Natural Heritage Program; and informational programs for owners of natural areas. Fees collected under these provisions are receipts of DNCR and are used for supporting the operations of the NCNHP. Fees collected during 2021-2022 are shown in Table 6.

Volunteers

In 2021-2022, 27 NCNHP volunteers worked a total of 581 hours. Work included monitoring Dedicated Nature Preserves and Registered Heritage Areas and surveying for rare plants and animals. Many other field biologists voluntarily provided Element Occurrence records to the Natural Heritage Program database.

The NCNHP Data Management team began incorporating records of rare species from iNaturalist into the statewide natural heritage inventory. iNaturalist is an online social platform for volunteers to record occurrences of organisms observed anywhere in the world. NCNHP created an iNaturalist project for NC rare species, allowing the Program to gather enough information to update 340 records of rare species during this biennium. iNaturalist also enabled us to cultivate new volunteers and increase our understanding of rare plant distribution in NC by documenting the presence of new species in NC and new county records of previously known species. Verified records based on iNaturalist observations include more than 25 taxa, with NC statuses ranging from Endangered to Watch List, including State Threatened Bigleaf Grass-of-Parnassus and state endemic Blue Ridge Gray-Cheeked Salamander, shown in Figure 7.

NATURAL HERITAGE PROGRAM STAFF

NCNHP staff are recognized across the state for their ecological expertise and knowledge of conservation practices. Program staff are listed below.

Permanent Staff

Misty Buchanan, Deputy Director for Natural Heritage
Jame Amoroso, Conservation Information Specialist (receipt-funded)
Rodney Butler, Business Services Coordinator
Wesley Knapp, Western Regional Field Biologist (Resigned November 2021)
Suzanne Mason, Conservation Information Manager (receipt-funded)
Scott Pohlman, Nature Preserve Property Manager
Judith Ratcliffe, Zoologist
Michael Schafale, Community Ecologist
Jess Schaner, Western Regional Field Biologist (beginning February 2022)
Nathan Shepard, Eastern Regional Field Biologist
Brenda Wichmann, Botanist
Meredith Wojcik, Conservation Information Manager

Temporary Staff (receipt-funded)

Kayla Christianson, Conservation Inform. Specialist (beginning February 2021)
Laurie Hamon, Environmental Specialist (resigned June 2022)
Stephanie Horton, Project Manager
Casey Meeks, Special Projects Herpetologist (beginning April 2021)
William Paynter, Special Projects Zoologist (April 2021 - June 2022)
Justin Robinson, Special Projects Botanist
Linda Rudd, Special Projects (Retired January 2022)
David Siripoonsup, Special Projects Botanist
Robert Whiting, Field Technician (April 2021-August 2021)

Summer Interns (provided by DNCR and Department of Administration)

Amanda Chapman, University of North Carolina at Wilmington, May – July 2022
Lily Cooper, Duke University, May – July 2021
Veronica Downing, Elizabeth City State University, May – July 2021
Gavanier Nicholson, University of North Carolina at Pembroke, May – July 2022

MAJOR ACTIVITIES PLANNED FOR 2023-2024

I. Survey lands purchased by state agencies and develop agreements for creating or expanding Dedicated Nature Preserves, such as Headwaters State Forest in Transylvania County, Dupont State Recreational Forest addition of Continental Divide/Dupont Connector Tract Henderson County, and Sandhills Game Land addition of Aberdeen Sandhills tract in Scotland County; monitor preserves and respond to questions from land managers and landowners as needed.
II. Survey lands owned by private and nonprofit organizations, and local and federal governments, to create, expand, and monitor Registered Heritage Areas; monitor preserves and respond to questions from land managers and landowners.
III. Conduct biological surveys of special project areas, including military buffers, electric utility rights-of-way, and other potential conservation areas at the request of landowners.
IV. Survey natural areas and endangered species in the National Forests of North Carolina (supported with funding from the U.S. Forest Service).
V. Survey Species at Risk: Carolina Hemlock and Mountain Purple Pitcher Plant (supported with funding from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service); Appalachian Grizzled Skipper (with funding from the U.S. Geological Survey).
VI. Continue updating Element Occurrences records and Element Ranks for animals, plants, and natural communities tracked by NCNHP.
VII. Provide natural heritage data and analysis to customers upon request and improve the online interface of the North Carolina Natural Heritage Data Explorer; increase awareness of heritage data available online by providing training to government agencies, land trusts, and private consulting firms.
VIII. Expand the natural heritage customer base by promoting the fee-based services especially among consultants and private corporations.
IX. Participate in data exchange with the national NatureServe office, to incorporate NCNHP data into the nationwide network of heritage data.
X. Provide data and analytical support to the North Carolina Land and Water Fund for review of grant applications; survey sites as necessary.
XI. Enter Element Occurrence Records of Species of Greatest Conservation Need into the Biotics data management system with support from N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission.
XII. Conduct field surveys of species and sites associated with “Piedmont Prairies” in the Durham area, with support from Durham County.
XIII. Conduct training and education – for example, online workshops and volunteer orientation and training.
XIV. Continue writing the descriptive book on natural communities, posting portions on the NCNHP website for immediate use as they are created.
XV. Continue analysis of Carolina Vegetation Survey plot data for improvement to existing natural community classifications.

North Carolina Natural Heritage Program
Biennial Protection Plan
List of Natural Areas
2023

NATURAL AREAS

INTRODUCTION

North Carolina's Natural Heritage Program (NCNHP) compiles the N.C. Department of Natural and Cultural Resources' list of natural areas as required by the Nature Preserves Act (NCGS Chapter 143B-135.250-.272 of Part 42). The list is based on the program's inventory of the natural diversity in the state. Natural areas are evaluated on the basis of the occurrences of rare plant and animal species, rare or high-quality natural communities, and special animal habitats, collectively termed the elements of natural diversity. They represent the program's estimates of the best locations for supporting natural diversity in the state based on Natural Heritage Program surveys and information provided by other agencies, such as the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission and the North Carolina Division of Parks and Recreation. Natural Areas are given priority ratings that indicate the degree of their importance for conservation. The complete list of natural areas is available for free download at the publications page of the NCNHP website, http://www.ncnhp.org/. Inclusion on this list does not directly confer protection to a site. Instead, the information on natural areas included in the Biennial Protection Plan is intended to help guide the conservation decisions affecting the state's biodiversity at multiple levels, including through the creation of Dedicated Nature Preserves and Registered Heritage Areas. The list includes both protected and unprotected areas. Inclusion on this list does not mean that public access exists. Permission of the landowner is needed to access all lands not open to the public.

The list of natural areas and their significance ratings is based on the best available information. All data used in our assessments are obtained from field surveys. Only species, communities, and other features of biodiversity that were actually observed are used in our evaluations of their significance.

This information is compiled in the program's Biotics Database and conforms to standards established by the nationwide network of Natural Heritage Programs in partnership with NatureServe. These standards include the specifications for recording and evaluating individual occurrences of NCNHP elements, as well as guidelines for estimating the degree of imperilment of these elements at the state and global levels.

Data used in evaluations of natural areas are updated on an ongoing basis. The Protection Plan is produced every two years. This list updates the set of known natural areas and their ratings. It is possible that some sites have been damaged or destroyed since they were last visited. More information on these natural areas may be obtained from the Natural Heritage Program. For contact information, as well as direct access to many of our datasets, see our website at www.ncnhp.org.

ORGANIZATION OF THE LIST

Natural Area Name

The list of North Carolina's most biologically significant natural areas is organized by county, and then alphabetically by natural area name. Names of Aquatic Habitats begin with a three-digit code indicating the river basin. River basin codes match those used by the N.C. Division of Water Resources.

Acres

The number of acres included within the natural area boundary (rounded off to the nearest whole number).

Representational Value

Natural areas are placed in one of five categories, based on the natural areas' importance in protecting the best occurrences of individual natural heritage elements. NCNHP uses several factors to determine which natural areas contain the highest priority natural occurrences of each element. These include Element Occurrence (EO) rank, which assesses the quality and condition of each occurrence, and global rarity rank (or G rank), which is a measure of rarity as well as the imperilment on a global level, both developed by NatureServe. Based on these variables, the relative importance rank for each occurrence is assigned.

Representational Value	Definition	Defining EO Importance
		G1-G2, G3 Endemic	G3 Non-Endemic, G4, G5
R1 (Exceptional)	Natural area contains one of the best three examples of G1 or G2 or G3 Endemic Elements.	1st to 3rd	--
R2 (Very High)	Natural area contains the 4th – 6th best examples in the state of G1-G2 or G3 Endemic Elements, and/or one of the best three examples of any non-Endemic G3 or any G4 or G5 Element within it.	4th to 6th	1st to 3rd
R3 (High)	Natural area contains the 7th to 10th best examples in the state of G1-G2 or G3 Endemic Elements and/or the 4th to 7th best occurrences of any non-Endemic G3 or any G4 or G5 Element within it.	7th to 10th	4th to 7th
R4 (Moderate)	Natural area contains the 11th to 14th best examples in the state of G1-G2 or G3 Endemic Elements and/or the 8th to 11th best occurrences of any non-Endemic G3 or any G4 or G5 Element within it.	11th to 14th	8th to 11th
R5 (General)	Natural area contains one of the 30 best examples in the state of Elements within it, which do not qualify for categories R1-R4.	15th to 30th	12th to 30th

Collective Value

Natural areas are placed in one of five categories based on the number and rarity of the elements they contain. The Collective Value Rating sums the number of elements in a natural area, and the rarity of those elements, weighted by their degree of imperilment at both the global level (G-Rank) and just within North Carolina (S-Rank).

The imperilment scores are assigned to each extant element occurrence on a 10-point scale, based on their combination of G-Ranks and S-Ranks. The highest scores are given to elements that are considered imperiled at both the global (G1) and state (S1) levels with successively smaller scores given to elements that are considered more secure (G5S5 being considered secure at both the global and state levels).

Collective Value Rating	Cumulative Element Score	Minimum Number of Elements
C1 (Exceptional)	91 and above	10
C2 (Very High)	61-90	7
C3 (High)	31-60	4
C4 (Moderate)	11-30	2
C5 (General)	2-10	1

Managed Areas Protecting All or Part of the Natural Area

These are fee simple properties and permanent easements where conservation is one of the management goals. This includes lands with a variety of management policies, from preserves established to protect natural areas or ecological values and multiple use public lands, to military bases where rare species and natural communities often coexist with military training. Examples include National and State Parks, Game Lands, Dedicated and Registered areas, National Forests, military bases, local parks and open space lands, land trust preserves, and perpetual conservation easements held by private conservation organizations or by the government.

Inclusion of an area in this list does not imply that the area is open to the public. Managed areas are listed alphabetically, not necessarily in order of size or importance of protecting the natural area.
